

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

CONTENT

- Let's Start!
- Let's Explore!
- Let's Practice!
- Extension Activity
- Target Words
- Learning Points

Let's Start!

How will the situation be taken care of?

Learning Outcome

Describe necessity, duty, advice, or strong disapproval in written and spoken situations according to work and social contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about solving problems.
- I can report facts about events or actions.
- I can talk about my work responsibilities.

Ask your partner:

- What do you do when dealing with a difficult coworker?
- How do you solve the issue?

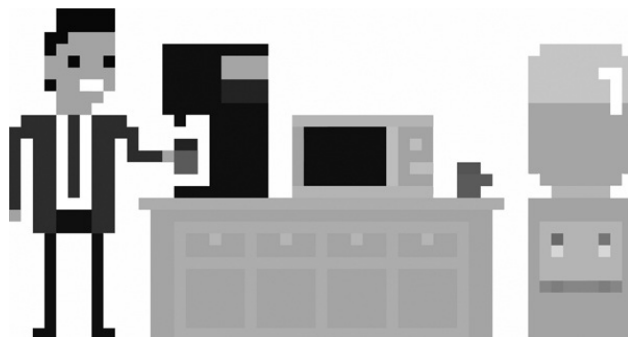

Let's Explore!

Boris talks to Denise about Adam's behavior as of late. What's he been doing?

* "As of late" means recently or lately.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

- Denise: Boris, would you like to chat now?
- Boris: I wanted to talk to you about Mr. Bari's behavior.
- Denise: What about it? I thought you said he was doing well.
- Boris: He is progressing quite well. However, something has come up.
- Denise: From the tone of your voice, I conclude this is a serious matter.
- Boris: He is starting to become somewhat of a liability.
- Denise: Adam? How?
- Boris: His behavior as of late has been quite bizarre. As you are aware, he has presented the office with his presentation on our current office layout and suggested that it should be improved.
- Denise: Right, and I must say that it was a rather informative presentation. He put a lot of research into it.
- Boris: I don't know if I would call it "research" per se.
- Denise: Judging by your reply, you don't seem to share my opinion on this matter.
- Boris: No I don't. It's because Adam has been disrupting the work of others. He believes that what he was doing was helping others but it came across as more of a disturbance in the office.
- Denise: Your comments imply that is an urgent matter that needs to be addressed. Why was this not brought to my attention earlier, Boris?
- Boris: I thought I had taken care of it. I spoke to Mr. Bari about his actions earlier in the week. He seemed to understand where I was coming from. I didn't realize that he was still continuing on with it until he made his presentation today.
- Denise: What you are saying in so many words is that I need to have a talk with him.
- Boris: Yes.
- Denise: Consider it taken care of. I'll speak to Mr. Bari right away.

Let's Practice!

Boris tells Denise about what happened.

Instructions: Classify the sentences into the correct category.

Word Bank

What was the conclusion? / As you are aware, he suggested that it should be improved. / We heard what happened. / Their team wanted to know when the event was. / I thought you said that he was doing well. / We imply that is an urgent matter that needs to be addressed. / He believes that what he was doing was helping others, but it came across as more of a disturbance in the office.

Reporting

--

Not reporting

--

Let's Practice!

Can you interpret what they said?

Instructions: Read the clues. Tick on the correct phrase that completes the sentence. Complete a row of 3 squares horizontally, vertically or diagonally to win.

Word Bank

- From the tone of your voice, I conclude that _____.
- The only possible inference is that _____.
- Judging by your reply, you _____.
- Your comments imply that this _____.
- What you are saying in so many words _____.

don't seem to share my opinion	That's a lot of words	this is a serious matter is that I need to talk to him		he did it on purpose is an urgent matter	I infer from your e-mail...	Are you implying...

Extension Activity

Write a dialogue!

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- Write a dialogue (15-20 lines) between two co-workers discussing a matter in the workplace. Report on what has happened.
- Use certain phrases to interpret what the other has said.
- Practice reading your dialogue aloud.

Self-Assessment

Yes

No

I talk about an issue related to work.

☐ ☐

I interpret what someone has said.

☐ ☐

I talk about events and actions related to the workplace with a partner.

☐ ☐

Target Words

- to progress (verb): to improve or develop in skills, knowledge, etc.
e.g. He is progressing quite well.
- layout (noun): the way in which something is arranged e.g. He gave a presentation on our current office layout.
- to put into (verb): to spend time or use energy doing something e.g. He put a lot of research into it.
- to disrupt (verb): to prevent something from continuing by causing problems
e.g. Adam has been disrupting the work of others.
- disturbance (noun): something that interrupts what you are doing, or the act of making this happen
e.g. It came across as more of a disturbance.
- to bring something to somebody's attention (verb): to tell someone about something such as a problem e.g. Why was this not brought to my attention earlier, Boris?
- to take care of (verb): to deal with something e.g. Consider it taken care of.

Learning Points

Interpreting the Meaning of What Has Been Said

When you want to clarify or emphasize what you have understood from an oral or written text, you can use certain phrases such as the following:

I infer from your e-mail that ...

The only possible inference is that ...

Your comments imply that ...

From the tone of your voice, I conclude that ...

Judging by your reply, you ...

What you are saying in so many words is that ...

These phrases are quite formal and therefore useful in a workplace setting.

Examples:

- From the tone of your voice, I conclude this is a serious matter.
- Judging by your reply, you don't seem to share my opinion on this matter.
- Your comments imply that is an urgent matter that needs to be addressed.
- What you are saying in so many words is that I need to have a talk with him.

Learning Points

Reported Structures: Types of Clauses: That and Wh-Clauses

When you want to refer to what other people said or wrote, you can use report verbs with certain types of clauses.

You use that-clauses to report statements:

For example:

John suggested that we should go to the movie.

You can use that-clauses to report statements that include wh-clauses:

For example:

He remembered that what was weird was that the man refused to leave his business card.

You use wh-clauses to report questions:

For example:

My manager asked me when I was thinking of taking a vacation.

Their team wanted to know where we had put the project files.

Examples:

- I thought you said that he was doing well.
- As you are aware, he suggested that this should be improved.
- He believes that what he was doing was helping others but it came across as more of a disturbance in the office.
- We implied that is an urgent matter that needs to be addressed.

